

Privacy Policy Statement

In keeping with our Value of Respect, Landmark Products recognises the importance of the privacy of individuals who have dealings with Landmark Products, such as customers, suppliers and employees. Landmark Products is bound by the Australian Privacy Principles, to the extent required by the Privacy Act 1988. This policy outlines how Landmark Products Limited and its Australian subsidiaries collect, use and manage personal information.

1.1 Personal information Landmark Products Collects

Landmark Products collects personal information where reasonably necessary for its functions and activities. Personal information that Landmark Products may hold includes the following:

- name, address and contact details;
- date of birth;
- employment and income details;
- bank account details;
- details of the products and services provided to an individual by Landmark Products;
- details of an individual's dealings with Landmark Products, including records of telephone, email and online interactions;
- credit-related personal information (see section 1.4 below).

1.2 How Landmark Products Collects Personal Information

Landmark Products collects personal information directly from an individual where reasonable and practical. Landmark Products may also collect such information from other sources, including:

- other entities who provide services to Landmark Products related to the products and services provided to an individual by Landmark Products;
- publicly available sources of information;
- an individual's representatives (e.g. spouse, professional adviser);
- subsidiaries of Landmark Products Limited.

1.3 How Landmark Products Uses Personal Information and to Whom it is Disclosed

Landmark Products collects, uses and discloses personal information generally to provide an individual with products and services requested, and to respond to queries. Landmark Products may also use personal information to make an individual aware of Landmark Products's other products and services or offerings provided by Landmark Products in conjunction with its business partners or associates. Landmark Products may not be able to do these things without the individual's personal information. Landmark Products may also collect, use and disclose personal information in connection with potential or actual unlawful activity, misconduct or transfers of Landmark Products's business or assets.

Privacy Policy Statement

Landmark Products understands the importance of keeping personal information private and only discloses such information to third parties in limited circumstances. Third parties with whom Landmark Products usually exchanges information include:

- credit providers and credit reporting agencies;
- an individual's representatives;
- Landmark Products's professional advisers including legal, accounting, auditing and business consulting advisers;
- government and regulatory authorities;
- subsidiaries of Landmark Products Limited.

Landmark Products also exchanges personal information with contractors who manage services provided to an individual on Landmark Products's behalf, or who provide services to Landmark Products, including:

- mailing services;
- billing and debt recovery functions;
- customer injury services;
- marketing functions;
- website, data management and technology services.

Parties to which Landmark Products discloses personal information may be located in Australia and other countries.

1.4 Credit-Related Personal Information

Landmark Products sometimes provides products and services to customers on credit. In connection with this credit, Landmark Products does in some cases handle certain consumer credit-related personal information described below (credit-related personal information), including information from credit reporting bodies (CRBs). For example, Landmark Products may handle this information in providing credit to sole traders, or where individuals such as directors provide personal guarantees for credit Landmark Products provides to their companies.

Landmark Products may collect and hold any types of credit-related personal information about an individual permitted under the Privacy Act, including:

- name, sex, date of birth, driver's licence number, employer and three most recent addresses;
- confirmation of previous information requests to CRBs made by other credit providers and credit insurers about the individual;
- details of previous credit applications, including the amount and type of credit and credit limit;
- details of current and previous credit arrangements, including credit providers, start/end dates and certain terms and conditions;

Privacy Policy Statement

- permitted payment default information, including information about related payment arrangements and subsequent repayment;
- information about serious credit infringements (e.g. fraud);
- information about adverse court judgments and insolvency;
- publicly available information about the individual's credit worthiness;
- any credit score or credit risk assessment indicating a CRB's or credit provider's analysis of the individual's eligibility for consumer credit.

This information may include information about an individual's arrangements with other credit providers as well as with Landmark Products.

Landmark Products may disclose credit-related personal information to CRBs to assist the CRBs to maintain information about individuals to provide to other credit providers for credit assessments. Landmark Products may collect credit-related personal information from CRBs for purposes including, to the extent permitted by law, to assess relevant credit or guarantee applications, manage and review the credit or guarantee, assign debts, collect overdue payments and produce assessments and ratings in respect of the individual's credit worthiness. Landmark Products may also exchange credit-related personal information with guarantors, debt buyers and other credit providers.

The CRBs Landmark Products may use include:

- QBE Trade Credit, GPO Box 705, Brisbane, Qld 4001, www.qbe.com.au
- NCI Risk Management, PO Box 2143, Milton BC QLD 4064 (03) 3225 9200.

Under the Privacy Act, individuals may request CRBs not to:

- use their credit-related personal information to determine their eligibility to receive direct marketing from credit providers; and
- use or disclose their credit information, if they have been or are likely to be a victim of fraud.

Please see other sections of this Privacy Policy for further information regarding access, correction, complaints, disclosures (including to other countries) of personal information and how we collect and hold personal information. This Privacy Policy is not intended to limit or exclude Landmark Products's obligations under the Privacy Act in relation to credit-related personal information. Additional privacy consents and notifications may also apply to credit customers and guarantors.

1.5 How Landmark Products Stores Personal Information

Landmark Products stores personal information at its own premises and with the assistance of its service providers. Landmark Products maintains strict procedures and standards and takes a range of steps to prevent unauthorised access to, or disclosure of, personal information and protect an individual's information from misuse or loss. Once an individual's information is no longer needed by Landmark Products, reasonable steps are taken to destroy or de-identify it.

1.6 Accessing and Updating Personal Information

In most cases an individual can gain access to or update personal information held by Landmark Products. To make a request to access or update personal information held by Landmark Products, contact Landmark Products in writing. Landmark Products may need to verify your identity. Landmark Products may charge a fee to cover the cost of retrieving and copying requested information.

1.7 Complaints and Further Information

Further information may be obtained about how Landmark Products manages personal information from the Privacy Officer (see contact details below). If an individual believes that Landmark Products has breached its privacy obligations or that individual's privacy rights in any way, a complaint can be made to the Privacy Officer (see contact details below). Landmark Products will endeavour to act promptly in response to a complaint.
