

urbidermis and Landmark:

A Partnership Bringing Timeless European Design to Australian Public Spaces

Landmark Products and urbidermis have joined forces to redefine the future of Australian public spaces. Their partnership combines over four decades of Landmark's local expertise in open space structures with urbidermis' legacy of European design leadership in urban furniture, lighting, microarchitecture and green infrastructure. Together, they aim to create more sustainable, inclusive, and beautifully designed environments across Australia's cities and communities.

This partnership builds on our long-standing relationship and marks our first step into the world of architectural street lighting, while continuing to bring urbidermis' urban furniture to Australian public spaces.

About urbidermis

Since 1987, urbidermis (Santa & Cole group) has been committed to good design, responsibility and urbanity.

Founded ahead of the 1992 Olympic Games with the aim of renewing Barcelona's urban landscape and positioning it as a global reference in urban design, the company continues to create more sociable, connected, and sustainable public spaces—where elements enhance both user experience and ease of maintenance.

Headquartered at the 200-hectare Parc de Belloch near Barcelona, which also hosts its own tree nursery (Belloch Forestal), urbidermis manufactures locally within a 200 km radius using FSC 100% and 100% PEFC-certified wood. It holds Cradle to Cradle, ISO 9001, and ISO 14001 certifications, and works with architects, designers, urban planners, and public institutions worldwide to deliver thoughtful, durable solutions.

As the first global urban furniture company to achieve B Corp certification, urbidermis reaffirms its commitment to community, sustainability, and ethical design—creating inclusive public spaces that improve quality of life for all.
